Frontline

Sinead Connor / Yusum Chau

What is Frontline?

- Frontline is a community project and a website
- It helps people find local health and wellbeing services
- Users can find contact details, ask for a call back, or be referred to services
- Frontline started in West Essex and now covers all of Greater Essex
- Most funding for Frontline comes from the NHS Integrated Care Board (ICB)

What can you do on Frontline?

- Frontline is an up-to-date directory of local support services
- It is available as a website and mobile app
- People may need support from more than one service at the same time
- Frontline makes it easier to find and contact different services in one place
- It can be used on a computer, tablet, or mobile phone

Video Demonstration

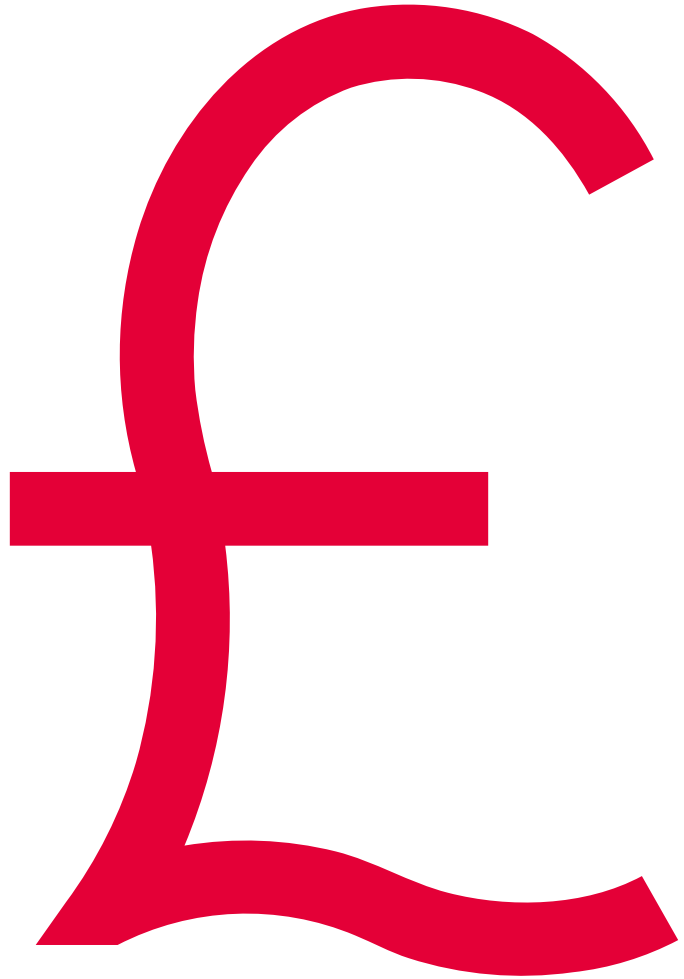

Why is Frontline useful?

- It gives people one trusted place to find support
- Information is kept up to date
- People can find help earlier and more easily
- It can help people find support for themselves before problems get worse
- Information from Frontline helps organisations understand what support people need and plan services better

Does it cost anything?

- Frontline is free to use
- There are more than 1,000 services listed
- Most services are free or low cost
- Frontline helps people find support that meets their needs

How are we improving Frontline?

- We are working with the NHS and other partners to improve Frontline
- We want Frontline to be easy for everyone to use
- We are listening to professionals, service providers and people with lived experience
- We want to improve accessibility and people's experience of finding support
- Our goal is to help people find the right support at the right time

How people are using Frontline

- NHS organisations made almost half of all referrals

- The most popular services were:
  - Essex Wellbeing Service
  - Citizens Advice
  - Peabody Floating Support

- The most common reasons people looked for support were:
  - Advice and advocacy
  - Health and wellbeing
  - Mental health
  - Housing and homelessness
  - Food and fuel support

How Frontline supports the ECC Priorities

Frontline helps people find the information and support they need to live more independent and connected lives.
